Organizing the Disorganized Child

The Annunciation Home School Association is proud to host a lecture to the Annunciation Community, given by Marcella Moran, co-author of the book Organizing the Disorganized Child. Ms. Moran advises parents on how to help their disorganized child at home and how to keep sane through the process. Her book teaches parents and students better organization and study skills with step by step instructions and common sense ideas that work. In addition, it describes the "why" behind behaviors of so many kids with weak planning and execution skills.

This lecture is sponsored by The Annunciation Home School Association. There is no cost to you but the information could be invaluable to your child.

MARCELLA MORAN, MA, LHMC is a licensed psychotherapist and educational consultant who works with families to develop positive strategies for students who are disorganized. Her unique skill of assessing a student's learning style with an organizational style has proven to be a successful strategy for developing personalized organizational systems for students of all ages. While serving as Coordinator for the Counseling and Psychological Services at Fordham University's Tarrytown Campus in New York, Marcella has helped students gain self-awareness and to improve academic performance through individual and group counseling. She has made presentations at numerous workshops and seminars on various topics including organizing the college bound student, time management for students, and study skills. Before starting her consulting business, Marcella worked as a New York State licensed middle school and high school guidance counselor. In addition to her private practice, she is also an adjunct Professor at Mercy College.
